Wanderlust

ALAN FENNAH

Wanderlust

'Wanderlust' is the second solo album from Alan Fennah, founder member of the UK band Alternative Radio, which formed in 1982. The band signed to EMI's Parlophone record label in 1983. Since then, the band have released several albums and singles in the UK.

Wanderlust was written, produced and performed by Alan during the national lockdown of 2021.

Alan said: 'After I made my debut solo album 'ALONE' in 2020 during the first two Covid-19 pandemic lockdowns, I was hoping that my brother Rob & I would be planning concerts and writing together once again, but as the new year of 2021 commenced, it became fairly clear that this wasn't going to happen.

Another lockdown ensued and while the public were confined to their houses, I decided to keep my brain occupied by writing more songs - The ten tracks for my second album 'WANDERLUST' came to me fairly quickly. Many of the songs on the album were inspired by TV programmes, news, documentaries or films I was watching at the time of my incarceration. One of the songs is about yearning to go away on holiday. Another is a cinematic instrumental based on Fritz Lang's Art Deco film classic 'Metropolis'. There's a song called 'Gone With The Wind' which is about childhood memories. Considering what was happening at the time, the 'Wanderlust' album has a fairly upbeat feel to it!

By the end of May 21, I'd written all the tracks and most of them had been recorded. It's ironic that such a depressing situation should turn out to be, artistically, one of the most productive times of my life. In some ways it reminded me of being 15 again, sitting in my bedroom writing stories, poems and lyrics in a large black book - which I still have!

The album was completed in June 2021 but Alan decided to wait until December to release it as, by then, he would be performing again as one half of 'Alternative Radio' with brother Rob.

The WANDERLUST CD album will be available to buy from: alanfennah.com from 1st December 2021.
